Everyone is Welcome!

Two Women Merchants of Old Town Tustin

Margaret Pottenger and Erma Zwirner, our two pioneer business women, starting their businesses before the malls and big corporations took over the small businesses. Both of these ladies are Tustin Historical Society members and are regular volunteers in our Museum now. They will present our program on Monday, November 19 and I am sure you don't want to miss it.

Margaret remembers the year 1959 as her Jabberwocky store introduced Tustin to the rest of Orange County. Starting April 18, 1959, Tustin became a destination for teenage girls looking for prom gowns, graduation dresses, school clothes, and for a chance to become models in the store's fashion shows. Being selected as models for her many fashion shows, which took place at high schools in Anaheim, Garden Grove, Fullerton, Newport Beach, Orange, and Santa Ana, brought hundreds of new customers to Tustin. The Jabberwocky building was almost 100 years old then, but the clothes were the epitome of teenage fashion. The building still stands at its original location on El Camino Real and is doing business as now Vintage Lady, Antiques.

Margaret grew up in Monrovia, California, and graduated from Stanford University. After college, she worked as an assistant buyer at Robinson's in Los Angeles. Then moved so Santa Cruz to work as a buyer in a store there before moving south to work at the well-known Rankin's Department Store in Santa Ana, again as a buyer in children's clothes. In 1959 she purchased property on El Camino Real. Back then, Tustin was the only place between Santa Ana and San Juan Capistrano. Margaret's shop was located near the grocery store, bank, hardware store and the cleaners, and so the Jabberwocky was an instant success. She became active in Tustin and was voted Tustin Woman of the Year in 1966. She closed her store and retired in January 1988.

Erma Zwirner, owner and manager of Erma's Gift Box in Larwin Square, was a pioneer business woman when she opened her shop in 1968. She was the first woman in business for herself in Larwin Square. A native of rural Ohio, Erma's parents owned and operated an old fashioned market or general store and she worked in it growing up. After college, she moved to California and pursued a career with the telephone company and raised two children. She was an artsy-craftsy person and soon her projects outgrew her home. In 1968 she opened Erma's Gift Box as an exclusive distribution center for her crafts, along with a few Hummel figurines. Her shop, decorated with antiques and crates, was a treasure chest of gift items. They were hard to find anywhere else. Even then, although a busy person, Erma found time for volunteer activities. She served as president and Board member of the Larwin Square Merchants Association several times. Erma retired and closed her store in 1992, but she is still volunteering today.

Don't miss this program. We look forward to reminiscing the old days with our two Merchants of Old Town Tustin.

JOANN BOLLESEN POSTER CONTEST

The Tustin Area Historical Society is again sponsoring the second annual “JoAnn Bollesen Poster Contest.” Third grade students from the Tustin Unified School District are engaged at this time in creating and portraying the “History of Old Town Tustin” in their designs. Projects are due December 14, 2007.

Prizes include Disneyland and “Broadway in the Park” tickets and will be presented to the winners at the February general meeting of the Historical Society at the Senior Center.

Thank you note from one 3rd Grade winner, Jake Hines, to Arv Bollesen.

MEMORIES OF EDDIE MARTIN'S AIRPORT

As a kid growing-up in Tustin in the late 1920's and early 1930's the sound of an airplane engine over-head caused me and others to pause and watch its flight and likely comment “there goes Eddie Martin”. Eddie established his airport in 1923 on an unproductive alkali 80 acre parcel of ground on the Irvine Ranch at the intersection of Newport Road, South Main Street and Lane Road.

On weekends Eddie would fly over Tustin and some of the local communities doing some barnstorming and then return to land at Eddie Martin's Airport, soon to be followed by a number of automobiles containing local residents to park along Newport Road at the airport. It was a popular destination on Sunday afternoons for a picnic lunch, an opportunity to examine the airplanes, take an airplane ride for $5.00 and watch a show of acrobatics, wing walking and parachute jumping.

I remember well my first airplane ride from Eddie Martin's Airport in 1932 in a Waco bi-plane. My cousin Paul Cleary and I were belted into one of the two open cockpits for a flight over the lima bean and sugar beet fields of the Irvine Ranch, the Segerstrom Ranch and the orange and walnut groves of Tustin. Eddie went on to become a nationally known and respected aviation pioneer whose friendship I was privileged to share. To me the airport will always be “Eddie Martin's Airport”.
